THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1863.

THE CITY.

REGGIE'S.—The Canal Committee will meet this Thursday evening, at the Mortuary Association rooms.

Our Largest House.—The annual meeting of the Board of Managers of this institution will be held at the House, 55 Third Avenue, this afternoon, at 3 o'clock.

The Lawyer Case.—The parties in the lawyer case, one of which mention was made in the Tribune, have been discharged.

TAXIERS.—The First Board of Trade Regis- ter has been transferred to the building of Mr. McArthur's division, Lester Street, where it should fit it in.

Exodus of the Troops.—Among other of those terrible storms and gales of Tuesday afternoon, and early Wednesday morning, the most destructive was that of the foot of Washington Avenue, at the foot of the Washington Avenue, was blown down, and now the procession on the ground, were divided into two parts.

MOTOR.—We wish to call the attention of Club and Shirt Manufactories, with Collier, Ladd & Co., just established at No. 78 Madison Street, to the proprietors from Troy, N. Y., and Boston, who said that all orders left with them will be promptly and neatly executed.

See their advertisements.

Lor.—A little boy, three years old, was lost yesterday afternoon from 140 Van Vorst Street. Has on a black hat and brown coat, and blue stockings. Can tell his name in his language. His name is Frank Green. Any information respecting him will be kindly received by his parents above named.

François.—Mr. N. R. François, President American Express, New York, W. G. Fargo, Judge Verplank, Judge H. R. Crocker, Osgood; W. J. A. MacDonough, Asbury, Gilliland; V. B. Peck, A. G. Wilcox, C. K. Tracy, W. H. Brewster, Buffalo; H. S. Moore, Springfield, Mass.; H. C. Cheney, Boston; H. Kip, New York—were stopping at Tremont House.

MARITAL REMARKS.—A number of amanuenses of this city have given a clink to study the works of the great masters.

Last evening, they rechristened at the church of the Holy Name, Hyatt's Passion, or the Cross, and the Words of the Rector on the Cross.

The most profound of first of Harde's gurus, or the like, will form the most lasting monument of his fame.

The rehearsal was very successful.

B.P.—We have been informed of a proposal in the air of a committee, to give an ex- cuse to Congress, to come off some time this month. The fare will cost trip to be in dollars. If agreed to, we are to be paid. This promise to give a man credit to pay his debts, and visit having business in that direction. The fare is only a fraction above half the usual rate. Tickets to be good for two weeks.

CHANGE OF LOCATION.—The Old Indiana Hotel, long occupying a part of the handsomely located Fourth Avenue, in which also resided the house of Mrs. Burgett, who lately became Mrs. Burnett, is to be sold, and is being a congenial spot for three, before the others are disposed of, and repaired, and rendered in every way comfortable for those who should become its inmates.

WILL FINE GROW FROM TUESDAY.—The City Gardner, is planting trees in the Court House grounds. The desert wold of oyster shells, in which there is nothing, but a congenial spot for trees, has been removed, and one or two of them will succeed in the growth of a good stand. A citizen, who has been invited to call and assist in bringing the bushes underlying to a successful termination.

New Building on Clark Street.—The rockwork on Clark Street, just South of Main Street, No. 147 to 157 Indiana, are being pulled down, in order to make room for a splendid three story brick building, which is to be erected soon.

The building will be 100 feet front, and 50 deep, and will contain three stories, five of which will be occupied by the architect, and the remaining two to the latter.

The front is to be of pressed brick.

FAIR AND ORNAMENTAL TRADE.—It is the pleasure of every farmer, gardener, and merchant to expand the field of real estate, to plant and ornament trees thereon. In a personal view, the investment pays better, to buy nothing but pleasure. The amount spent in trees or shrubs, may place of real estate, will repay the owner, and he who wishes to sell or mortgagethe same, will find a ready market.

THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1861.

FROM GEN. HOOKER'S ARMY.

No news is not always good news. The Government, up to present writing (10:30 a.m.), is silent, and keeps a close hold upon telegraphic communication from Washington. This can only mean one of two things. It is significant of a defeat, or of incomplete operations, whose progress might be marred by a fresh rush of news dispatches over the wires. We choose to believe, from the evidence that this morning lay before our readers, that the latter is the case, in this instance. Enough seems now to be known to show that all was going on well up to Monday, and that the rebels were getting the worst of it. Already a large number of rebel prisoners, some three thousand in number, have arrived at Washington. Gallant and noble fighting has been done by our troops, and there are rumors of grand successes and advantages already gained. The blood-stained field of Burnside's ill-starred battle is now ours.

From our dispatches, and from the careful resume we compile from our New York and Philadelphia exchanges, our readers will be able to study out very clearly the situation of the army, and locate on the accompanying map its points of advance to the position at Chancellorsville. This, even thus far develops what is greatly to Gen. Hooker's praise. He received the enemy, and by a skilful fight crossed the river with his army, without loss, by a grand sweep of over sixty miles, and appears suddenly in heavy force on the rear and left flank of his foe. The enemy who had responded to the first attack of Fredericksburg must have been some heavy marching, for they have been recalled suddenly to move out towards Chancellorsville. The whole movement on the part of our troops is exceedingly well done and the work done succeeds only the gilding of success to give it a place as one of the most remarkable of military achievements.

The news of last night, incomplete as it is, unconfirmed by any official tidings, will, nevertheless, be received as a cheering earnest of success gained, on which a substantial final victory waits.

LAWTON.
Just as we are going to press we learn that the rebels have been largely reinforced from Richmond and elsewhere; that they have taken the heights of Fredericksburg. Another account states that the rebel attack was repulsed. It was led by Gen. Longstreet. The accounts are conflicting. The Government will not allow a word to come over the wires.

There was another great battle near Chancellorsville on Tuesday. The rebels fought desperately, and suffered immense losses. They tried to drive Gen. Hooker's army into the Rappahannock before Gen. Sedgwick's corps could come up to his assistance, but failed at every point.

Gen. Hooker has taken and sent to Washington 600 prisoners, and many stands of colors, as trophies of his prowess.

THE GERMAN REGIMENT.
The statement that the German regiments under Hooker's command had been broken up and will not outlast to be greatly exaggerated when the whole truth is known. The German brigades numbered but 8,000 men and were assailed by Stonewall Jackson at the head of 40,000. It is no wonder they gave ground, but we do not believe they exhibited cowardice. The Germans are a brave, stubborn, hard fighting race, as they have proved on a thousand battle-fields for a thousand years.

NOW LET THEM BE PUNISHED.
The dispatches announce that the military leaders of the South have held an infamous Vicksburg. Just this is to be regretted. Many loyal men waited for many months past, though their indignant blood has flowed to their fingers tips to see the traitor stalk to and fro among our communities, flaunting his atheistic doctrines and insulting loyalty in the very halls of his friends. He has indeed a gall too far. He has openly declared that he would not be a party to the rebellion, and now it remains to us to teach him that, to those, important events.

A writer in the Republicans charges this man, Boyer.

As Chairman of the Penitentiary Committee, with recommending and voting to give a million dollars worth of State property, and the labor of from 800 to 1,000 prisoners for the construction of fortifications, for the protection of the public buildings which had been damaged by the hands of the rebels, he has already raised many much-needed funds in ten minutes of his walk. While with his family, he has been a most honest member and chairman of that important committee, and has deserved an important place in the history of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The cause was well received, and we are glad to hear that Mr. Howard intends to stir up the snakes whenever he gets his eyes.

The Great West.
One territorial domain in the far West, truly to be characterized as "this." A few days ago, the Times of Denver, Colorado, reported the local county of Will in the Legislature. Boyer, it seems, wrote a letter to a soldier in the army, stating among other things that "there is no such state as Colorado in this State," that "there have been several offensives after deserts, but the people will not allow them to be taken back, and have driven the officers out of the country." Ex. The tone and purpose of the letter was to encourage disunion and breed discontent among the soldiers, particularly in California. The following statement shows the number of square miles, total number of acres of public land, &c., in the states and territories named:
